

SARGENT & GREENLEAF (S&G) MODELS 2740 & 2937 VISUAL COMPARISON

A side-by-side comparison would show a few visually detectable differences between these two locks. The dial surface of S&G Model 2740 is smooth, with two alignment notches (see illustration) used to help align the S&G 2740 during installation. The S&G 2937 has a textured dial surface and a change index mark on the rim of the window of the spy-proof dial cover (see illustration). See manufacturer's installation instructions for further details.
